Dashboard (Home)

Last Modified on 09/12/2025 12:34 pm MDT

The first page you see when you access Farmbrite is your Dashboard. This homepage displays relevant and important information so you see what's critical right away. This includes things like weather, tasks, alerts, and more. You can immediately start navigating elsewhere when you log in, but it may benefit you to stop and review the page, as maybe you'll remember a critical task, or change your plans for the day based on the forecast.

Alerts

The first thing you see at the top of the page are any alerts that have been triggered. This includes things like low remaining quantity for an inventory item, recent orders that were submitted in your online store, and upcoming scheduled appointments that are assigned to you. These will remain at the top of the page, but can be cleared using the X on the right side of the alert banner.

Weather

Next, you'll see a weather forecast to help you prepare for the day. You can view the hourly report for today, or choose the option for Daily to see the next six days forecast. You'll see data like temperature, humidity, sunset time, cloud cover, and more. If you are looking for more weather features, or perhaps a way to record your own logs, take a look at this article to learn more about gauges, climate logs, and weather history.

Task List

A shortened version of your Task List is displayed next. You can always click Tasks from the main menu to see all of them, but the overdue tasks and those that are due in the next are shown here. You can interreact with them and mark them complete right from the dashboard as well. Note that this shows you tasks, and not those that are unassigned or assigned to other users.

Recent Orders

You'll see the most recent orders from your Farmbrite market here. This is the total number of orders submitted for this month. If you have not yet configured your products and market, you can learn more about those features here.

Income vs Expense

As you add income and expense transactions to the account section, you'll see them immediately on your dashboard in this graph. This can help you see your monthly profit or loss at a glance. Of course, if you need to enter transaction or access more data, acheck out this article to learn all about the accounting features available in Farmbrite.
