Manage Your Account Information

If you need to make changes to your Farmbrite Account, you can edit your information by selecting the "Account" link from the navigation menu on the top of the page. Just click the Account Menu and then choose Settings.

In this area you can change many details about your account:

- Your Farmbrite Plan Type
- Your Farm name, address, phone, email, website, and social media information
- Your Time Zone
- Your Measurement System - Select if you'd like to see information displayed in US Customary or Metric measurements.

- USDA Hardiness Zone and frost dates - Adding these values will be used to calculate frost dates when you create a new Crop Type. If you're not in the United States, feel free to leave the USDA Hardiness Zone menu blank, and simply set your Average Last/First Frost Dates below. Alternatively, you might select a USDA Hardiness Zone that corresponds to your geographic location instead- for example, if you're in southern Canada, the northern US zone might work for you.
