Receiving Reminders Through Farmbrite

Using your Farmbrite schedule to create events helps you make sure you don't forget important dates and appointments. To help avoid any falling through the cracks, Farmbrite can also send you helpful Reminder Emails to alert you of upcoming scheduled events. This also applies to your staff; if the scheduled event is assigned to another user, they will also get the reminder emails. These emails are sent out automatically the night before the event.

In this email you will receive your reminders for the next day as well as any incomplete tasks that have been assigned to you.

How Do I Disable These Reminders?

We're all busy, and maybe you're on top of your tasks without receiving these Reminder emails. You can easily disable them by clicking on your name in the upper right, and then selecting Your Profile. On the Edit screen, uncheck the box to Send Schedule Reminder Emails if you no longer want to receive them.

Even if you choose not to receive the reminder emails, you can still keep up with your tasks and events when you are on the go using Farmbrite's mobile app. This can help keep you organized without getting additional emails in your already cluttered = inbox!
