

How do I enter a discount code in the Market

Last Modified on 02/23/2021 11:10 am MST

Setting up a discount code in Farmbrite

You may want to give a discount code to your customers. Here's how to do that in Farmbrite.

*Please note: Orders will that are in Paid will not be able to have a discount code added. In the case that you want to give a customer a discount on their order we suggest adding an order for them and sending an invoice to that customer for payment.

Here are directions on how to set up a discount on an order for your customer.

Go to your Market tab

Go to Orders

Go into an existing order

Click Edit

Click on the word Discount at the bottom of the screen. (By the totals.)

Choose a discount amount or a Discount percentage

(Optional- add a discount reason.)

Click the green button at the bottom that says, "Add Discount"

After you have added the discount code there is a button at the top of the order page that says, "Email Invoice." This will send this invoice to your customer.

(Note: There is not a place to add a note to this invoice at this time.)

Adding a discount code to an order

Orders will that are paid will not be able to have a discount code added. In the case that you want to give a customer a discount on their order we suggest adding an order for them and sending an invoice to your customers for payment.

